Old Business

Peabody Update

Kate Van Auken announced the decision to begin the transition of WPLC's Peabody program to a new web application, Clio. She shared that the cost is a significant decrease from previously considered options through OCLC and exponentially less expensive than building a custom website. Alison shared her experience speaking with library consortia similar to WPLC's setup, participating in OCLC WorldShare, and how integral Clio is to their work. She also shared that Clio had been exceptionally responsive to feedback and requests for more information. More information is available in the Coordinator's report.

New Business

WPLC Website

Kate and Alison shared updates about the ongoing transition of wplc.org to the Streamline platform. They reported going through the existing content on the website at this time and removing superfluous information to improve the navigability of the site. Underused pages are being archived, and the website's layout is being updated to ensure less duplication of information. Members are encouraged to reach out to Alison and Kate if there are certain resources on the website (outside of the cooperative's services and member info) that they find themselves first checking wplc.org for. Information archived can be brought back later, but feedback helps to guide what is truly helpful for members. More detailed information is available in the Coordinator's report.

Public Comments/Membership News:

There was no public comment.

Unlocking the Leader Within: The Honorable Nancy Thane, Probate Judge and Presiding Family Court Judge, walked us through exercises to get us thinking about how to better serve our public. How do we use our senses and minds to effectively serve our patrons? Are we active listeners? Are we wise (and sincere) with our words? How do we utilize body language? How do we broaden our perspectives and ideas of what is possible? And how do we become the kind and compassionate people who touch others' lives most deeply?

Next Meeting: The next meeting will be on February 25, 2026, location TBD.
